Mr. E. Ikkanda Warriar.—Are not the Government aware that most of the books contained in Appendix V are books of daily reference for practising lawyers?

Mr. Thomas Manjuran.—All these Regulations will be shortly published and the Registrar of the Chief Court is entrusted with the work. He has already finished compiling the special Regulations. The remaining Regulations are being now compiled. Of course, in the nature of things, the work will take considerable time. But it will be published as early as possible.

Mr. Paul Mampilli.—How long have these Regulations been out of print?

Mr. Thomas Manjuran.—I have no specific information. All the Malayalam editions are available. We all know Malayalam. The work of compiling these Regulations is being expedited and an officer has been entrusted with the work.

Mr. K. M. Ibrahim.—With regard to sub-division (2) the number of times they were amended, it is not answered.

Mr. Thomas Manjuran.—It is stated there "The name and number of the Regulations in force till the end of the 1108 are given in Appendix to the Administration Report of 1108, a copy of which is placed on the Council Table". What was done in the year 1109 is given. Evidently, the idea is that what was done before that, the Government did not think it feasible or practicable.

Mr. K. M. Ibrahim. You did not answer it.

Mr. Thomas Manjuran.—If you read the answer properly, you will understand.

Mr. K. M. Ibrahim.—I have read the answer. How can it be an answer to the question as to the number of times of the amendment?

Mr. Thomas Manjuran.—The first portion of the answer shows that no attempt was made to give the number of amendments introduced before the year 1109. The only thing that is mentioned in the answer is the amendments that are introduced in 1109. The amendments before 1109 are all referred to in the Administration Report.

Caste-war Statement of fresh appointments.

353. Mr. K. Ayyappan.—Will the Government be pleased to give the names of the present heads of departments of the Government service and caste-war number of fresh appointments made in each department during the time of its present head?

Rama Varmha Tampuran.—A statement containing the available information is appended. (Apyendix VI.)

Para 3. Noted. The instructions will be strictly followed hereafter.

Para 4. Noted.

Para 6. (1) The Permanent advance balances remain with the second clerk. As the transactions from the advance could be noted from the vouchers only and as these vouchers were with me, he could not write up the register. I also did not give up the vouchers because there was no necessity for recoupment. I have now noted the Comptroller's suggestion to see to the writing up of the Register as transactions take place and vouchers are obtained.

Para 6. (v) The transfers have since been sanctioned in Diwan's Proceedings dated 10th November 1932, L. Dis. 4219/1108. Some of the articles purchased in previous years were in an unserviceable condition and it was necessary to replace them by fresh ones especially when in the next four months all the clerks and all the Inspectors would be working day and night in Office for the consolidation of figures for Administration Report and seeing that there was provision under contingencies. The spoiled articles will be disposed of in auction. The books purchased were urgently required.

Para 9. Noted.

Para 11. Necessary action has been taken to effect the recoveries.

PART II.

(i) Such delays will not recur.

(ii) Noted.

(iii) Will be done.

Para 5. Noted. Omissions are being got supplied.

Para 6 (i) to (iii). Will be done as instructed.

Do (iv). The discrepancy is due to a mistake on the part of the accountant who inadvertantly made the entry in the Permanent Advance Register as soon as the bill was written up and entered in the Contingent Register.

(vii) Proper acknowledgments were already taken and filed along with those referred to in para VI above.

(viii) In this case also a proper acknowledgment has been obtained along with those referred to in paras vi and vii.

The audit notes are re-submitted.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
R. A. GAYATRINATHA AYYAR,
Registrar of Co-operative Societies.
